1. [REDACTED] Comment. Two previous reports by another source indicated the assembling of these trains for transportation of troops from Bad Freienwalde to Strausberg; the unloading of three troop trains [REDACTED] and the unloading of a fourth troop train at the Kaulsdorf railroad station. See [REDACTED]. All trains carried components of the 6th Gds Mecz Div. The information in paragraph 3 of the present report confirms the unloading of one of these trains. Units unloaded at the Schoene-weide railroad station belonged to the 7th Gds Mecz Div from Fuerstenwalde. Other sources stated that the unloaded troops went to the Wuhlheide. Observations at the Schoene-weide railroad station indicate that probably rear details of the 1st Mecz Div were entrained at the Berlin-East freight station and at Wriezen and Schoene-weide.

2. [REDACTED] Comment. Paragraph 6 indicates that, on 15 July 1953, the troop trains [REDACTED] were used for shipping away units of the 1st Mecz Div from East Berlin to Doeberitz. The empty trains probably were redispached from Doeberitz to Neuruppin for another employment.
3. [REDACTED] Comment. The train from Frankfurt/Oder to Jueterbog probably was identical with the train [REDACTED] in paragraph 7. The train may have carried materiel only; otherwise the transfer of a medium AAA unit to the Jueterbog area for training is observed for the first time. Previous combat firing practices by medium AAA units only were reported from the Wustrow AAA Range. The vehicle number on the other troop train belonged to the 32nd AAA Div (US), thus indicating that the train carried medium AA guns instead of AT guns.

25X1A 4. [REDACTED] Comment. The assembling of cars, the entraining station and the un-25X1A loading station of these troop trains were previously reported by the same source. [REDACTED]. Compared with the reference report, however, the following discrepancies are observed as to the receiving stations:

25X1 [REDACTED] The train went to Joachimsthal instead of Wuensdorf.
 Joachimsthal as receiving station is not indicative of the identity of the unit loaded on the train.

25X1 [REDACTED] The train went to Neubukow instead of Wuensdorf, which indicates that the train carried a component of the 31st AAA Div.

The troop trains from Wildpark hauled the 30th Gds Gun Arty Brig to Altengrabow; while artillery units of the 9th Gds Tank Div returned to their home stations on the troop trains from Luckenwalde, following a 3-day stay at the Jueterbog troop training grounds. The troop train from Rathenow probably carried a unit of the IV Arty Corps, possibly the 25th RL Brig, which moved to the area of the Eighth Gds Army for field exercises.
